

Beach cleanups are crucial for protecting marine ecosystems, supporting local economies, and promoting community well-being. Cleaning beaches prevents pollution from entering the ocean, safeguards marine life from harmful debris, and enhances the aesthetic appeal of coastal areas, making them more enjoyable for both locals and tourists. If not removed, this debris will end up in the ocean. Beach cleanups are a last line of defense to prevent debris from causing harm to our oceans, to wildlife, to our coastal economies, and even to beach-goers. WOMEV in collaboration engage in Ocean Cleanup every year because it is aimed at environmentally friendly, large-scale and efficient removal of plastic pollution from aquatic ecosystems. In all facets of its work, the organization is focused on sustainability: the collection and removal process is passive
